10. Please rank your level of fitness?
- Extremely Fit - I ride/run hundreds of miles per week, stretch daily, and take the staircase two steps at a time.
 - More Fit Than Average, But Not An Olympian - I exercise regularly and can easily bike 50 miles in a day.
 - Average - I exercise regularly and 50 miles would kick my ass, but I'd love every minute of it!
 - Infrequently - I try to get exercise a few times per week, but life gets so busy that it's hard sometimes! I'm stoked on shorter trips!
 - Not Often - I exercise once or twice per month.
11. How are you currently maintaining your fitness? (sports, hours or days per week, etc)
12. What grade of activity level are you interested in for this adventure?
- Type III Fun (aka an FCG DOOM Tour) - I want to be totally exhausted and push myself to my extreme -100 miles of backcountry cycling is no big deal. That's why I'm hiring Doom!
 - Type II Fun - I like to push myself hard, so 50-mile days are no big deal. However, I don't want to collapse at the end of the day or been pain for weeks after the tour.
 - Type I Fun - I want to challenge myself and am willing to ride or boat all day and get to camp late in the afternoon. However, I also want a great night's rest and some downtime to enjoy camp.
 - Just Plain Fun - I am interested in riding fewer than 15 miles per day and I want plenty of time to hang out at camp. I'm slowly building up my skill set and stamina so that I can eventually do more difficult tours, but I'm in no hurry!
 - Other - I'm really inexperienced and I don't know at what level I am, to be totally honest.
